She's Not Ready For Shelf

By DEAN TERRILL

Southeast Nebraska Bureau Fairbury—Mrs. Mac's whole store is smaller than some checkout counters, but try naming a supermarket that's been around for 46 years.

She's manned a neighborhood grocery long enough, in fact, to top all this town's businessmen in longevity. Her husband's premature death had left her with three youngsters, a little insurance—and a living room that became her living.

"It was sink or swim, and for a few years I wasn't sure which," she reflected, "more with the vim of a go-go girl than a great-grandmother. The boys helped by delivering, first on foot, then with little wagons and finally bikes."

Graduation eventually left Mrs. MacFarland without help, however, and her operation has been strictly singular ever since. Candy-countering her third generation, she smilingly interprets it as "mostly good kids, same as their folks."

Amazingly steady on her feet at age 80, the ever-energetic Mrs. Mac (few know her as Edith) now is open "only" 11 hours a day. Once it was 6:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. six days a week, plus a shorter stint on Sundays.

"You lose out in a neighborhood business if you don't work a little earlier and a little later," she observed without the slightest complaint.

One serious illness and several visits with her children and seven grandchildren have been the lady grocer's only diversions through the decades. Son Jack is a school principal at Berkeley, Calif., Max manages a lumber yard at Silt, Colo., and daughter Nyla (Mrs. Howard Oppen) is a Waterloo, Iowa, housewife.

She Dried 'Em Out

"The biggest of many changes in the food business was seeing everything come packaged," observed the veteran merchandiser. "I shouldn't tell it—I still have some of the same customers—but I must confess I used to dry out the soggy crackers."

Although Mrs. Mac could take a dozen steps in any direction and be beyond her little business, she isn't about to be out of it.

"I want to stay by these shelves as long as I possibly can—as long as it isn't another 46 years."

WEST LINCOLN...

Annexation Restraining Rule Asked

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A former West Lincoln Village Board Member, Cecil O. Campbell, filed suit in Lancaster District Court Monday asking that the City of Lincoln be enjoined from annexing the village and that LB586 be declared unconstitutional.

Judge William Hastings set hearing on a temporary restraining order for 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Campbell alleges that LB586, which "purports to authorize cities of primary class to annex villages under certain conditions" is in violation of both federal and state constitutions because the bill is "class legislation."

Improper, Illegal

He contends the bill makes "improper and illegal class of villages subject to the bill and creates a class of villages without proper or lawful or constitutional basis for such class."

The plaintiff is asking the court to further declare that Lincoln city ordinances 8730 and 8891 and comparable ordinances purporting to annex West Lincoln are not authorized by LB586.

"The ordinances are not authorized by LB586 because the village does not fall within the class of villages subject to terms of LB586," the petition states.

Vote Cited

Campbell alleges that the City of Lincoln has passed the ordinance to annex West Lincoln effective Jan. 4 "notwithstanding that the majority of the electors of the village voted against annexation."

The petition further contends that LB586 is broader than the title of the bill includes and covers more than one subject and includes matters not given in the title of the bill.

Campbell asks that the defendants be enjoined by temporary restraining order and injunction from carrying out the provisions of the ordinances.

West Lincoln Board Decides Against Fighting Annexation

By JOHN DeCAMP

Star Staff Writer

The West Lincoln Village Board has officially surrendered in the annexation battle, but some West Lincoln citizens have privately taken up the sword and gone in to court to stave off annexation of West Lincoln by Lincoln.

Cecil Campbell, a West Lincolnite who has filed suit to stop annexation, strongly criticized the Village Board for its decision Monday not to continue to fight annexation. Numerous other West Lincolnites joined Campbell in casting ballots at the board and Board Chairman Curtis Jensen.

At a special meeting Dec. 27th, the board made a contract with Lincoln attorney Merrill Reller and associates to conduct litigation to get LB586 declared unconstitutional. This is the 1965 bill which enables Lincoln to annex West Lincoln without the approval of West Lincolnites. The agreement called for the village to pay Reller $12,000 from village funds to conduct the litigation.

The next night at another special meeting the board voted to rescind the action of the Dec. 27th meeting. According to Board Chairman Curtis Jensen the decision of the previous night's meeting "to go into court and spend $12,000 of the village's funds fighting annexation was a rash and hasty decision" which made Jensen "heart-sick."

Vote A Mandate

Campbell and other citizens Monday night contended that the recent vote by West Lincolnites which showed them strongly opposed to annexation was a mandate to the board to fight annexation no matter what.

Jensen, who has worked toward a peaceful annexation throughout the last several months, replied that the majority of the board members thought that attempts to continue fighting annexation would result in more harm than good even if West Lincoln won its annexation fight. "The problems would not be over even if we won the litigation," Jensen said. "Then the real problems would just begin. We would have to provide our own water system—would cost between 200 and 300 thousand dollars. This alone would bankrupt the village."

Board member Larry Green, who has "steadfastly opposed annexation," told the citizens at the meeting, "You citizens have your rights. You can start your own litigation or do anything you want."

Right To Fight

"You have the right to fight," Jensen said, "but not to use the village funds doing it. When you find someone with $12,000 they are willing to give you, then go right to it."

In other action, the board unanimously voted to postpone for 30 days action on a bill from Reller.

The bill for $1,000 was for "services rendered" to the village on the annexation question.

Campbell, when asked how the citizens planned to finance litigation said, "I've got a good man behind me. That's all I'll say."

British Zambian Fuel

Run Proves Expensive

Dar es Salaam, Tanzania (AP)—The British Royal Air Force transport command Monday flew its last cargo of fuel into Zambia. Civilian air lines are taking over.

In 19 days, the RAF shipped 178,000 gallons of fuel into Zambia's copperbelt.

The RAF planes used approximately twice as much fuel in their aircraft to get their total load into Zambia. Each flight cost more than $8,400 to get its load valued at about $6,720.

New York (AP)—Transport Workers Union President Michael J. Quill and eight other union officials were held in civil contempt Monday night in the city's transit strike.

State Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller held that they had contemptuously violated an injunction against the city's crippling transit strike that was handed down nine hours before subway and bus workers walked off their jobs early New Year's Day.

The contempt verdict also applied to TWU Local 100, and to two locals of the Amalgamated Transit Union, also on strike.

Geller said he would stay the order's execution until Tuesday morning.

Geller said the law provides for imprisonment of the defendants until they instruct "in good faith" all members of their unions to end the strike. Quill has said repeatedly he would "rot in jail" if necessary.

The Transit Authority, which asked for the injunction, has been meeting all day with mediators and the unions, with "no significant change" reported. One official said the outcome of the contempt proceedings would have a great effect on the progress of negotiations. He did not elaborate.

As night fell, much of the city's normally mobile population headed home on foot, but a feared jam of private vehicles, stalled off in the morning, did pile up for about two hours at dusk.

It was the first working day of a strike which started Saturday, and the full effects hit this nation's largest city, normally held together by its vast web of subway and bus lines.

About half of the city's workers never reached their jobs, delivering a staggering blow to commerce and industry.

Many stores, without shoppers, closed early. Others—including up to 50% of the major restaurant chains—never opened, for lack of working crews.

Millions Stay Home

Millions of people simply stayed home. Still the feared choking increase of private cars struck by day's end.

Terminals of commuter trains, still operating to suburban areas, also were clogged.

The street tieups had been averted in the morning hours, apparently because of urgent warnings by officials for people either to stay home, or walk.

Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes said the light morning traffic "lulled many people" into abandoning caution, and that extra cars had poured into the city in the afternoon.

Walking Healthy

Walking "can be a very healthy thing," said the city's new and trouble-besieged mayor, John V. Lindsay, who himself walked 70 blocks to city hall. "You see some sights you have never seen before."

In Washington, a spokesman said President Johnson was keenly concerned about the situation.

Public and parochial schools, and many colleges, also remained closed, but planned to open Tuesday, even if the transportation stoppage continues.

The city's vast bus and subway network covers 790 miles, and on a normal weekday, hauls 7.4 million passengers.

Washington Looses Assault On Burgeoning Steel Hikes

Washington (AP)—A governmentwide assault against rising structural steel prices was loosed Monday, after two other companies joined Bethlehem Steel in posting increases.

Inland Steel Corp. matched Bethlehem's $5-a-ton advance while Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp. posted a $3 increase. Both these are among smaller producers while Bethlehem is No. 2 in the industry. Other major companies withheld any announcements as government pressures built up.

Three agencies which direct virtually all the government's structural steel buying—the Defense and Commerce Departments and the General Services Administration—issued orders to the same effect: don't buy from companies which have raised prices.

Unwelcome

And Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said the increases announced by Inland would be unwelcome both to industry and to fighting men in Viet Nam, adding:

"Foreign steel producers are the only people who will take much pleasure in this announcement."

Inland Steel is the same company which, by refusing to join in a $6-a-ton general steel price rise in 1965, helped the late President John F. Kennedy win the steel price confrontation of that year. But not this time.

Inland Chairman Joseph L. Block said the move is not inflationary but instead is the result of "inflationary forces already let loose" which have raised the costs of steel production.

Pentagon Shift

At almost the same moment Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara directed military procurement officers to shift military orders for future structural steel deliveries away from any company which had raised its price to a company which had not done so.

Then, as if by signal, just before the end of the government's business day three civilian agencies spoke out—the Economic Council, Commerce Department, and GSA.

The latter two agencies control the use of more steel than the Pentagon, since the Commerce Department is responsible for federally aided bridge and highway building and the GSA handles public buildings construction. The three agencies directly and indirectly consume one-fourth of the nation's entire steel output.

Lowest Level

Undersecretary of Commerce Leroy Collins, acting in the absence of Secretary John T. Connor, announced he was ordering all department officials "to purchase structural steel at the lowest possible price." He explained:

"In this critical time, with rising defense expenditures, other government costs must be held to the lowest possible level."

Ackley's comment on the pleasure of foreign steel producers in the increases was explained in his statement.

Imports of structural steel in the first 10 months of this year were up 56% from a year ago, he said, and accounted for about one-eighth of U.S. consumption.

1965 Better

A comparison of earnings statements indicated that both Bethlehem and Inland had better profits in 1965 than in 1964.

In the first nine months of 1965, Bethlehem's profits were $121,423,000—or $2.64 a share. That compared with $104,928,000—or $2.28 a share—in the same 1964 period.

Inland earned $54,444,000—or $2.98 a share—in the first nine months of 1965, compared with $48,990,000—or $2.70 a share—in the like portion of 1964.

Mortician First Negro Mayor Of Major City

Springfield, Ohio (AP)—Robert C. Henry, a 44-year-old Negro funeral director, became mayor of Springfield Monday night—the first member of his race to be mayor of a major U.S. city.

Henry led the ticket for city commission in the November election, and fellow commissioners selected him unanimously Monday for the largely ceremonial office.

The top vote getter in previous elections did not always manage to get the nod for mayor.

Sworn In By Negro

Swearing in Henry was City Director Charles Carter—the first Negro to hold that post in Ohio's ninth most populous city. He has been law director a year.

The new mayor offered "to do the best I have with renewed vigor for my community."

Almost unnoticed in the excitement, the first woman ever to serve on Springfield City Commission also was officially seated. She is (Mrs.) Betty Brank.

Henry, in a relatively brief political career, has served one four-year term as the only Negro commissioner in this city of 83,500.

Prodded By Friends

Henry said he decided to enter politics on the urging of friends because of a "need to shake the apathy among Negro voters."

He was one of three Negro contenders for mayor of a major Ohio city last year.

State Rep. Carl B. Stokes lost to incumbent Mayor Ralph Locher in Cleveland by only about 2,000 votes.

In Dayton, Commissioner Don L. Crawford was the No. 2 vote-getter in a system that automatically gives the top job to the candidate who leads the ticket. Crawford won a second term as the city's first Negro commissioner.

moving to Cleveland where he graduated from the Cleveland College of Mortuary Science. He also served with the aviation engineers, attached to the Army Air Corps, during World War II.

Henry said Springfield's most pressing problems include badly needed capital improvements and more money to hire and maintain adequate personnel.

Henry said continued progress of Springfield's human relations program should be a goal for the city commission.

Housing Extension

Better housing now must be extended, he said, "to those of the middle class group who are able to pay but unable to find adequate housing to fit their needs."

He attributed to "the good will" of the people of Springfield the fact that progress has been made without racial incidents.

He added, "We have been able to avoid the agitation movement. We don't have extremists or anyone here to whip things up. We have people of good will who are willing to look at things through sensible and intelligent eyes."

Henry and his wife, Betty, have three children, all at home. They are Robert Jr., 13, Allen, 10, and Lisa, 8.

LBJ Calls HHH Visits Success

Washington (AP) — President Johnson got a favorable Far Eastern report from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Monday — but another rebuff from North Viet Nam, the main target of his peace offensive.

Johnson's diplomatic spokesmen continued their efforts in the Middle East and Africa Monday while the lull in the bombing of North Viet Nam went into its 11th day with no indication of when it might end.

"A very successful mission" was the way President Johnson described Humphrey's week-long trip to Japan, the Philippines, Formosa and Korea. The President made this assessment when he brought the vice president out to talk to reporters.

List To Leaders

Humphrey told newsmen he had given the leaders of the four U.S. allies a 14-point list of U.S. "peace basket" proposals in his effort to promote support for American policy in the Southeast Asian struggle. But he got no indication that the Reds were closer to showing interest in peace talks, he said.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman flew to Tehran to see the Shah of Iran after conferring with Pakistani President Ayub Khan at Peshawar. Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams sped on to Kenya after stopping in Ethiopia, Kenya, Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia.

Radio Hanoi harshly attacked the U.S. moves as it has done before. It said "the U.S. aggressors" in "their peaceful negotiations swindle" are really trying to "conceal their acts of war expansion."

Signed, 'Observer'

The North Vietnamese broadcast was based on a commentary in the publication Nhan Dan signed, "Observer," which normally indicates an expression of official government views.

According to the Hanoi broadcast, "The campaign in quest of peace which Lyndon Johnson is conducting in the Texas manner can by no means hide its deceitful and hypocritical nature."

In Moscow, Patriarch Alexius, head of the Russian Orthodox Church, accused the United States of trampling justice underfoot in South Viet Nam but also appealed to all governments involved in the Viet Nam conflict to end the fighting.

In Belgrade, Yugoslavia, a major Communist Party newspaper said the pause in U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam and optimistic declarations in many capitals have strengthened hopes for a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam war.

Muddy Paratroops Find Few Reds

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — American paratroopers struggled through the mud of the Mekong Delta Monday in pursuit of withdrawing Viet Cong forces but reported only occasional contact with enemy.

Minor skirmishing was reported on other warfronts and the United States abstained from bombing North Viet Nam for the 11th day.

As the communist guerrillas slipped deeper into their sanctuary near the Cambodian border, it was uncertain whether the heavily armed Americans or their allies would attempt to pursue the Reds much farther over the difficult terrain.

The probe by the 173rd Airborne Brigade was the first big paratroop invasion of the delta, where neither the French in eight years of fighting, nor government troops in recent years have had any success.

The operation is in the canal-laced sugar and rice fields near Bao Trai, 20 miles west of Saigon. New Zealand and South Vietnamese units also are taking part. The drive was aimed at catching the Viet Cong or pushing them across the Cambodian border.

Reports from the area said the Americans, supported by artillery fire, air strikes and even tanks found the going rough.

One battalion reportedly advanced only 30 yards in seven hours, its men crouched or crawling in water because of snipers' bullets.

A U.S. spokesman said the 173rd had killed 111 Viet Cong, captured seven and detained 502 suspects. Vietnamese troops claimed 125 guerrillas killed. U.S. casualties have been described as light.

Casualties included three paratroopers killed when four rounds of New Zealand artillery fell in a company's headquarters section.

Six soldiers were seriously wounded.

Sunday, four paratroopers were killed and several wounded when a 500-pound bomb accidentally discharged from a Skyraider bomber.

In the air, U.S. Air Force B-52s bombed jungle targets in South Viet Nam's Binh Duong province 40 miles north-west of Saigon.

In other developments: —U.S. Air Force Secretary Harold Brown ended a three-day inspection of American bases in South Viet Nam and said the buildup of U.S. forces there equaled and perhaps exceeded the Berlin airlift and the World War II airlift "over the hump."

—U.S. Ambassador, Henry Cabot Lodge signed an agreement with the South Vietnamese government for two television channels. Officials said the television, to be shared with U.S. armed forces, eventually would give the government a new channel of communication with the public.

Firemen To Seek 25% Wage Boost

Cleveland, Ohio (UPI) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers (BLF&E) announced Monday it would seek a 25% basic wage increase from 190 railroads effective Feb. 2.

The union has 30,000 members.

The 1966 wage demands could present a severe challenge to President Johnson's hold-the-line wage-price policy.

The White House had no comment on the union's announcement, but Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said President Johnson's view on wages — as well as price increases such as the current ones in the steel industry — were well known.

'Frivolous'

Railroad industry spokesman J. E. Wolfe said in Washington that he had not seen the union's notices, but that if the account of them "is reasonably accurate, they are so completely unjustified as to be considered frivolous."

Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference and the industry's chief negotiator, added, "The railroads are now conducting 55% of their freight and yard operations without firemen, and have clearly demonstrated this can be done both safely and efficiently. The union's demands thus can only expedite the elimination of the unnecessary firemen who remain employed."

Four other unions representing some 150,000 operating railroad employees are expected to follow the BLF&E in serving wage demands later this year.

Night Premium

The BLF&E demands, as presented by union President H. E. Gilbert, call for wage hikes of from $5 to more than $6 a day, as well as a 25% increase in special allowances and miscellaneous rates. Other demands include adjustments for the cost-of-living raise, night premium pay of 20 cents an hour, and an employer-paid pension of $6 per month for each year of service.

"Railroad transportation employees have not adequately shared in the great prosperity of the industry, but 1966 will alter that situation," Gilbert said.

The industry's prosperity, said Gilbert, is reflected in a five per cent increase in freight traffic last year, a 15% increase in piggybacking, a 30% increase in hauling of new motor vehicles and an increase in total operating revenue by three per cent.

Gilbert asked the improvements be made effective Feb. 2. The notice was served to the individual railroads, which are expected to refer the demands to their national body, the National Railway Labor Conference.

In accordance with the Railway Labor Act, negotiations must begin within 30 days.

The BLF&E never has had a nationwide walkout, and Gilbert did not envision one.

U.S. Agrees To Resume Aid To Egypt

Cairo (UPI) — The United States officially agreed Monday to resume aid to the United Arab Republic under the stiffest terms ever exacted from this country. The agreement ended a six-month aid suspension prompted by chill U.S.-U.A.R. relations.

Under the agreement, the U.A.R. will receive $55 million in surplus commodities during the next six months.

The aid represents a sharp reduction from the former three-year agreement under which aid in the final year alone reached $180 million. The agreement boosts the aid total to over $1.3 billion since 1952.

But it represents only about one-fourth of the U.A.R. food import needs for six months.

In authorizing the new program, President Johnson noted relations between the two countries have improved recently.

The agreement, however, specifies dollar repayment of $14,639,000 — the first time the U.A.R. has had to spend any hard currency for U.S. aid.

Informed sources have indicated the shorter duration and limited amount are intended to make the U.A.R. think twice in the future about attacking the U.S. and to restrain its leaders from spending on uneconomic development projects as in the past.

Shastri-Ayub Summit Opens Today Under Soviet Wings

Tashkent, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan meet Tuesday in a confrontation three months after directing armies against each other. The success of their talks remains in doubt.

They meet in negotiations presided over by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin who, by persuading the two warring leaders to at least talk, appears as a mediator of Asian disputes.

Kosygin will bring Shastri and Ayub together for an informal meeting about mid-morning and then host a luncheon for both men and their staffs at a government-owned country house outside Tashkent.

A formal, public inauguration of the Tashkent summit will take place later in the day, but it already is clear that priority will be placed on private, informal talks.

Kosygin paid separate visits to both leaders in government house in Tashkent, the major city in Soviet Central Asia.

A Soviet spokesman refused to say what was discussed, but it was reported Kosygin is pressing Ayub and Shastri to enter detailed negotiations that will result in substantial lessening of tension.

There has been a feeling in both India and Pakistan that no wide settlement of disputes can come out of the summit unless the emotion-filled issue of Kashmir is resolved.

Pakistan, which holds two-thirds of the Himalayan state, demands a plebiscite for the Kashmiris. It says this must be the first step in any meaningful settlement with India.

Holding the most fertile part of the state, India says Kashmir is an integral part of India and a plebiscite is out of the question.

Moscow's interest in settling the Indian-Pakistan dispute is similar in one respect to Washington's.

Both want peace in India and Pakistan so these two impoverished nations can build their economies and thus resist the increasingly heavy Chinese pressure on them.

U.S. diplomats for more than a decade tried to fashion a joint India-Pakistan defense against communism. American hopes for success all but faded years ago and now Moscow has seized the initiative.

The United States and its huge aid programs — $11 billion to each country since 1951 — have been shouldered aside and the Soviet Union is mediating the conflict.

A major benefit to the Russians is that with this conference they stake out their claim to a place in the conduct of Asian affairs despite Communist China's charge that they are European intruders.

A pitfall for the Russians is that they, like the Americans before them, will bruise feelings in both India and Pakistan by trying to play both sides of the quarrel.

Indian and Pakistani officials were grumbling already that Shastri and Ayub were greeted upon their arrival in Tashkent by exact party in such things as welcome band flags and slogans.

And it was rcted with some disgust on both sides that a Soviet spokesman announced that Kosygin spent exactly the same time — an hour and 15 minutes — with each leader in separate meetings.

All this is taken as confirmation of suspicions in India that Kosygin is shifting the Soviet Union from all-out support of India in the quarrel over Kashmir to a middle-of-the-road position.

Lahore Talks End Unfruitful

Karachi, Pakistan (AP) — Talks between Indian and Pakistani representatives ended in Lahore Monday with no decision reached on the withdrawal of forces.

Washington (UPI) — Marguerite Higgins, a war correspondent whose zeal won the envy of many of her male counterparts, died Monday of a rare disease she apparently picked up at the Viet Nam warfront.

Miss Higgins, 45, died at the Army's Walter Reed Medical Center after a two-month illness.

She was the wife of retired Air Force Lt. Gen. William E. Hall.

Miss Higgins entered the hospital Nov. 3 and continued to turn out her column for the Long Island newspaper Newsday and many other newspapers. As her condition worsened, the number of columns was reduced but even while

Million U.S. Men Needed For Victory

... SAYS SIR BASIL

San Francisco (UPI) — America would have to send a million soldiers to Viet Nam to be assured of a probability of military success, Sir Basil H. Liddell Hart, noted British military historian, said Monday.

"Bombing is not the answer," Capt. Liddell Hart told a News conference. "It won't work without guerrilla warfare. You always hit the wrong people."

"Putting a million men in Viet Nam would give a probability of success. A half million men would give a fair possibility of success. But I don't think very much less than that would do it."

Liddell Hart, 70, now a distinguished visiting professor in history at the University of California in Davis, said that even so, it would be necessary to keep the large force in Viet Nam until there was "a stable government with a military force that could stand on its own."

He said that if America decided to put such a large force in Viet Nam, "the other side might be more inclined to negotiate."

In general, he said, Westerners think too narrowly in terms of military strategy, while the Chinese think in political terms. Anything that puts a strain on the Western world would be welcome to China, he said.

"There are no blacks and whites in the situation," Liddell Hart said.

Swede Peace Petition Received By Embassy

It asks for removal of all American troops from Viet Nam.

Boston Industrialist Is NAACP President

New York (AP) — A retired Boston industrialist, Kivie Kaplan, was unanimously elected the fourth president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday night.

Kaplan, 61, was chosen by the organization's 60-member board of directors to succeed Arthur B. Spingarn, a New York City lawyer who had announced his retirement at age 87 from the post he had held since 1939.

The board's newest choice continues unbroken its policy of electing whites to the highest post in the nation's largest civil rights organization.

It is largely a ceremonial job, however, more closely connected with fund-raising than with policy.

Actual power rests with the chairman of the board of directors, Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, and the executive director, Roy Wilkins, both Negroes. Both were re-elected by the board Monday night.

Kaplan is also the second Bostonian to hold the post.

A spokesman said 45 of Kaplan's relatives are lifetime NAACP members.

Earlier, Wilkins told the quarterly directors meeting that membership had fallen from the second year in a row — from 460,000 to 440,159.

Atlanta Board Seats Negro

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Q. V. Williamson, first Negro elected to the Atlanta Aldermanic Board in modern times, was sworn in Monday along with two other newcomers to the 1966 board.

Williamson, a real estate dealer, ran as a Republican and defeated veteran Alderman James Vickers, a white Democrat, in the city primary last year.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., sworn in for his second four-year term, proposed in his annual "State of the City" message that 100 patrolmen be added to the city's police force and that a sewer service charge be levied to help provide badly needed sewer and pollution control facilities.

13th, H Zoning Request Denied

... OFFICE-APARTMENT BUILDING TURNED DOWN

By BOB SCHREFF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday denied a request for commercial zoning on the southwest corner of 13th and H after hearing City Planning Director Douglas Brodgen argue that there is adequate land in the central business district now zoned for business purposes.

At the same time council members asked that the zoning ordinance be amended to allow only F restricted commercial uses on all land one-half block deep and completely surrounding the two square-block area where the city-county building will be located.

voted against the zoning change.

Brodgen, apparently with the council's agreement, said that 13th and H is far enough from the 10th and J courthouse location to not afford the area sufficient "protection" once the city-county building is completed.

Not needed

Further, Brodgen said that a study shows that the concentration of people in the Capitol-courthouse area will not generate enough new business to require additional zoning for business uses.

There has been no "significant development" of office space near both governmental buildings by professional people (mainly abstracttors, attorneys and realtors) who use the buildings, he said.

Brodgen told the council there are 45 acres of land north of J in the central business district containing buildings that have "outlived their usefulness" and are "old enough to be removed or substantially remodeled for business uses."

However, Comstock, noting that the State Capitol enjoys a protective ring of restricted zoning, asked that an ordinance be prepared setting up a similar commercial-use corridor around the city-county building site.

"That area deserves just as much protection as the Capitol," Comstock declared.

Change Okayed

In other zoning action, the council approved, 4-3, a change of zone from B two-family to G local business on the northwest corner of 27th and South. Voting against the change were Mrs. Boosalis, Hinkley and Sellick.

Louis Svoboda and others applied for the zoning change. A service station is proposed for the corner.

Attorney Robert Perry, representing the applicants, said the three lots, running north from the intersection on the west side of 27th, are "no longer valuable as residential property," citing noise and traffic volume as the reasons.

Brodgen and the City-County Planning Commission had recommended that the change be denied on grounds that there is "no public need for additional business uses in the neighborhood," and that a change would have an adverse effect on traffic and adjacent residential property.

The council approved, 6-1 (Thompson against), creation of a water district in Leighton, between 53rd and 56th.

Several area residents were present to oppose the district, because private lines had already been installed in many cases and the assessment, they said, would cause a financial burden.

The council talked about it, but did not decide on the possibility of delayed assessments in such circumstances before approving the district.

Nine Holiday Road Deaths Set A Record

By The Associated Press

Nine persons died on Nebraska highways during the 78-hour New Year's weekend, eight of them in three mishaps Saturday.

The toll surpassed the previous record of eight killed during the 1958 New Year holiday.

With only three days gone in 1966, the traffic count now stands at eight, compared to two on this date one year ago.

Three persons died in a two-car collision inches from the Nebraska state line west of Venango. The Safety Patrol identified the victims as Loretta Golenor and Pat Eickel, both 15, of Venango, and Carolyn Lange, 21, Sterling, Colo.

A Topeka, Kan., couple, who had been visiting their son in Lincoln died in a two-car head-on collision about six miles south of Nebraska City on U.S. 73-75.

Otoe County Attorney Betty Peterson Sharp identified the victims as Ralph Carpenter and his wife, Clara, both in their 60s.

And a collision of a car and a Burlington train in Hastings claimed the lives of a Hastings couple and their young son.

Dean Fielder, 29, was killed outright and his wife, Sharon, 24, and their son, David, 3, died hours later in a hospital.

City Okays Bond Sale

The sale of $5.5 million in electric system revenue bonds was authorized by the City Council Monday.

The bond sale will provide funds for the city to complete its acquisition of the electric properties of Consumers Public Power District within Lincoln and some properties in a 10 mile adjacent area.

Bids on the bonds are scheduled to be opened at 10 a.m. Jan. 12, with council approval of the sale slated for later that day.

The city-consumers merger, originally expected to finally be accomplished last Saturday, will probably go into effect by Feb. 1.

City Council Honors Miller

Frank J. Miller, Lincoln's retired city treasurer, was honored by the City Council Monday.

By resolution the council extended to Miller "our sincere appreciation." It termed him "a most valuable asset to the city."

Before retiring last Friday, the 68-year-old Miller had been a city employee for 42 years. He had served as treasurer since his appointment in 1937.

He is succeeded by Jerry Speedlin.

New Paving Assessment Plan Okayed

The City Council has tentatively approved a new paving assessment formula for corner lots.

The formula was outlined to the council by the Public Works department, Monday.

City Engineer Richard Erickson said its purpose is to cut the total paving cost of property that has been assessed in two different paving districts.

Council members said they favored the formula if the law department indicates it is legally sound.

Latest Reapportionment Act Argued Before High Court

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The constitutionality of the Legislature's attempt to reapportion itself by crossing county lines was argued Monday before the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff challenged the latest redistricting act, LB925, in an original action contending the state constitution was violated.

Edward F. Carter Jr. of Lincoln, Carpenter's attorney, urged that a 1962 constitutional amendment for crossing county lines fell within a special three-judge federal panel struck down a substantial portion of it.

The panel ruled 2-1 that that portion giving 20% to 30% weight to area violated the federal rule of "one man, one vote."

Still Stands

But Cecil A. Johnson of Omaha, special assistant attorney general, argued that the constitutional provision for crossing county lines still stands.

"If the amendment was not intended to permit the crossing of county lines, it was presented as a fraud to the voters," he said. "There's no limit on this constitutional change except by implication."

The first act, LB628, was ruled unconstitutional last May by a special federal panel, whose majority said the law's 48.4% population disparity between the largest and smallest districts was unacceptable.

The State Justice Department has appealed the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court, where the case is pending.

The second remap act (LB925) was enacted on the closing day of the 1965 session, creating 49 new districts. Some districts cross county lines and would give urban area voters their largest voice in the one-house Legislature since its beginning in 1937.

Invalid

In addition to the constitutional question of crossing county lines, Carter said that act was invalid also because:

—it would result in some persons being represented by senators for whom they could not vote.

—it establishes the boundaries of some districts along lines subject to change by annexation of cities and villages, constituting a violation of legislative power.

Carter suggested that state and federal action striking down both bills would not place the Legislature in an impossible dilemma.

"The Legislature can apportion itself within county lines and within the one-man, one-vote rule by dropping to 25 senators," he said. "There are legal exists for the Legislature."

Best Judge

Johnson said the Legislature is the best judge of its operations and needed membership.

He predicted that if the reapportionment bill is invalidated, the next Legislature will be elected at large.

Johnson said an attorney

Family Finds Milford Nice After Congo Stay

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Milford—"This is a nice, quiet place to live and raise a family," says this community's only dentist.

After his first two years out of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, almost any place would be nice and quiet for Dr. Clayton Peters.

He returned here to set up practice last summer on the heels of a term of practical experience in the riot-torn Congo.

It was interesting work, he concludes, but not as effective as the former Henderson resident had hoped.

Few Native Patients

"They just aren't up to dentistry," said Dr. Peters, of the natives. "Their teeth are awfully good, in general, and they wouldn't come to me until an extraction was necessary."

At a Kikwit hospital, where he worked the first six months of the two-year term, there wasn't enough work, and most of what there was consisted of non-native missionaries and teachers. "You need a population of 100,000 or more to work with," he said.

A Leopoldville clinic held its office for the remainder of the time, but there, too, half of the drilling and filling was on Europeans and the rest on Americans and upper-class Congos.

In the ways of western technology and education, "they have a long way to go," the Mennonite Central Committee (MCC) volunteer observed. The government contracts with the MCC for American practitioners.

Leaders and educators are lacking, and though the country is wealthy in diamonds, copper, lumber and small industry, most of this is still in white hands, and "the government is downright corrupt, in my opinion."

Leopoldville, the capital, is thought of as a haven, and hundreds of thousands have migrated there since the 1960 independence and consequent relaxation of restrictions. The Belgians required natives to prove they had jobs before allowing them to move to the city, but that requisite has been lifted, and the population has soared from 300,000 to over a million. Thievery and unemployment are rampant.

Dr. Peters moved his wife and son, Carey, now three, to the city when hatchets and arrows started flying around Kikwit, and set up in a government office formerly used

★ Those are a few of the human tests involved and there will be endless stories of others as the situation is prolonged. But how can 33,000 transit workers, public employees of the city of New York, walk off their jobs? Most states have laws against an action such as this, even in the field of private utilities transportation and communications service to the general public. Think of the consternation that must prevail in a city such as New York where the transit system discharges thousands of people per minute during rush hours at the

The authority, therefore, already faces the threat of increasing its 15-cent fare or for receiving financial aid from the state or federal government. It is a public transportation problem faced by communities large and small throughout the nation and spotlighted as a result of the New York conflict. Unfortunately, the New York strike is not likely to settle any of the problems demonstrated in the tests that it advances.

Other purposes will be served, too. These new institutions will bring secondary education closer to the student, possibly at a considerable saving, which means more widespread opportunity. And they will do much to improve the economies of their towns.

All Nebraskans would rather have won than lost at Miami and defeat is never easy to take. But we are as proud of our team and its coaching staff as we have always been. We welcome them back to Nebraska and hope they know their efforts throughout the year have been appreciated.

Pearl S. Buck, 73, Leads Busy And Creative Life

By ROBERT PETERSON

One of my recent thrills was presenting Pearl S. Buck with our annual "Life Begins at Forty" award. Miss Buck's saga gives inspiration to aspiring writers everywhere, for her first book wasn't published till she was nearly 40.

In the ensuing three and a half decades she won both the Pulitzer and Nobel prizes and her output towers to an incredible 65 books. And she is still producing. The past year she published five new books, and two more are in the works.

In 1964 she created in Philadelphia the Foundation bearing her name, devoted to the general welfare and education of children born and living in Asia whose fathers were American servicemen.

"These children are my chief concern today," this stately, silver-haired woman told me. "I became aware of the need when I visited Korea and Japan and learned about the thousands of children fathered by U.S. troops—children who are beautiful, intelligent and look very much like American children but are outcast because of their illegitimacy and foreigners.

"Their mothers do what they can for them, but because of discrimination and prevailing poverty most of them lack proper food, medication and clothing, and have no access whatever to education.

"I was shocked to find these children—who are half-Americans—sadly neglected. It seems to me it is very harmful to American prestige in the Orient for these children to grow up ignorant and helpless and simply, as the Communists have said, 'What the Americans have left behind.'

"The Foundation is not an adoption agency. But we can arrange for those who are interested to finance the care of a specific child and be kept informed of his progress."

Miss Buck is a tireless worker in behalf of this poignant project. To the extent possible, she pays all administration expenses herself.

But the needs are so great that she calls on fellow Americans for assistance. During the past year she appeared in 75 cities raising funds for the cause.

Traditional retirement thinking causes many to assume that passing three score and ten brings an end to usefulness. But Miss Buck's purposeful career, at 73, is evidence that age needs be no bar to creativity and humanitarian service.

If you would like a new booklet "Finding Where to Live in Retirement" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs. Copyright, 1965, King Feat. Synd., Inc.

One might assume that to achieve this harvest of words she must be a recluse who sits all day bowed low before a typewriter. But actually she spends only her mornings at writing—about five hours a day. The rest of her time is given to her family and friends, travel and humanitarian work.

In the 1930's she and her husband, Richard J. Walsh, adopted five children—four half-Japanese and one half-German—who were children of American servicemen abroad.

In 1948 she created Welcome House at Doylestown, Pa., devoted to encouraging American adoptions of half-Asian children. She states that the usual age limit of 40 in adopting parents can often be waived for Amerasian children, in view of the great numbers available.

Last year was an excellent year for the dogs. Cats, too. Americans spent $654.6 million for pet food. (There's a book out—"Cooking for Cats.") In case you want to toss a bash for your cat.

The number of dogs and cats is going down: Dogs down to 24.1 million. There were two million more in 1961. And cats! Way down, from 22.1 million in 1961 to 16.7 million in 1965. (Who counts them anyway? An odd profession.)

The point is, though they are fewer, they're eating better.

The national pet food bill was almost double. And happy makers of dog and cat food expect it to top a billion dollars by 1975.

In the lush Virgin Islands, the tourists can no longer bet on the galloping turtle.

The island cops picked up a local resident who was running a Chinese pai gow game. "Hey," said the gambler, "how about the rich tourists playing the turtle races at Bluebeard's Castle and other stylish hotels?"

This logic presented a problem to the court. They outlawed the Turtle Derby on which millions of tourists were plunging their last million bucks.

The turtles are now unemployed and a charge on the State.

If you build a better mousetrap, mice will not beat a path to your door unless you also have a better bait.

Science has now discovered that cheese is not it. A gum drop or peanut butter is top mouse fodder. Thus the man with a poorer mousetrap will have the path beaten to his door. And another great axiom gets the ax.

The Federal Communications Commission a few years ago granted radio licenses to six male ruffed grouse in Minnesota.

The birds were equipped with transmitters—the idea was they would fly about giving off beeps. Thus the University of Minnesota could monitor the grouse. Get an idea what they were grouching about.

Have not been able to find what happened to this excellent idea.

By now, the grouse should have learned Morse code. Be able to send and receive—by key of course. Flying over Minnesota dot-dashing: "73s (regards) to all!"

In sunny Naples, a girl named Maria—aren't they all?—had a parrot. Whenever Maria's boyfriend came to call, the parrot shouted: "Don't trust that man!"

Maria's beau (hot-tempered, Latin lover) strangled the bird-fink. Maria broke her engagement.

Maybe so and maybe not. A parrot in a hotel once reached out and nabbed the fountain pen from my pocket. He cracked it like a walnut. I would have strangled the blighter myself. But was afraid to lay hands on a bird with a beak like that.

Now about that $654.6 million in dog and cat food. I don't suppose that includes the steak end you bring home from the restaurant in the doggy bag.

On a good evening, my dog sometimes scored as much as $2.75 of a $5 steak. (Steaks were $5 once in restaurants.) Sometimes I brought home so much steak (if I wasn't feeling peckish) that I stifled the dog. Put the steak in the icebox. Had it warmed up for lunch.

Though I have no dog now, I still bring home doggy bags. The result being the moppets turn up their noses at peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. They are accustomed to rate, restaurant, corn-fed Kansas City beef.

That is what the doggy world does for me. I have a cat. But cannot get the doggy bag steak away from the children to give the cat a rightful share.

Instead I contribute to the national spending of $654.6 million. And what am I raising but expensive gourmet tots.

N. T. Tiemann First To File For Governor

Wausa banker N. T. Tiemann Monday officially filed as a Republican candidate for governor in the May 10 primary.

The 41-year-old former mayor of Wausa became the first candidate to file for the office.

Tiemann noted that he already has a "full-time campaign" off the ground, with the organizational and fund raising efforts going well.

Tiemann said he has covered most of the state with speaking engagements and plans to campaign 24 days during January alone.

He said organizations supporting his candidacy are being formed in all counties, the major cities and among various age groups across the state.

Tiemann announced he would seek the governor's post on Oct. 17. He has never before run for a state office.

He has been president of the Commercial State Bank at Wausa since 1957 and is a past president of the Nebraska Bankers Association.

He has been active in local politics, serving as Knox County Republican Chairman and on the budget and finance committee of the State GOP Committee.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska's College of Agriculture, Tiemann has an agricultural background. He has served as an assistant county agent at Lexington, assistant manager of the Nebraska Hereford Association, executive secretary of the National Livestock Feeders Association and director of industry relations for the National Livestock and Meat Board.

He is married and has four children.

Two other Republicans, former Gov. Val Peterson and Henry Kuhlmann of Grand Island, have announced they will seek the gubernatorial post.

Governor's Assistant Lauds McCook Job Corps Center

Gov. Frank Morrison Monday received a glowing report on the McCook Job Corps Center from his administrative assistant, Gene Budig, who toured the center last week.

Budig said the southwest Nebraska community has shown fine support for the center and the center's enrollees appear to have the correct attitude.

He said Job Corps center projects scheduled at southwest Nebraska lakes next summer "should prove to be a boon to recreation in that corner of the state."

The center, established last month at the old army airfield northwest of McCook, presently is training 56 disadvantaged boys ranging in age from 16 to 21.

Enrollment at the federal anti-poverty facility eventually will increase to between 200 and 224 youths.

Budig said McCook residents have shown "a deep interest in the boys and the program," exhibited by the fact "many of the corpsmen were invited into McCook homes for the holidays."

Gov. Morrison said he was "gratified by the community's response."

Budig said the present enrollees "are well cared for and seem to be extremely interested in the program" and "seem eager for additional learning opportunities."

He said the 37 staff members at the center have placed the training emphasis on "acquisition of skills needed for employment, such as carpentry, cooking, clerical and supply work."

He noted the youths will do considerable reclamation work at lakes later this year, including construction of boat docks and picnic facilities.

The McCook center is one of three such facilities in Nebraska. Another center for men is located at Chadron, and a center for girls is located at Omaha.

RELAX—

word of the month in suburbia

—and relax! The busy holiday's have passed and the settling-down-days are here for all to enjoy before the busy, but fun-filled days of Spring arrive.

Right now we are reminiscing about the holidays and there is so much that's worth remembering. Several suburban families traveled to interesting vacation locations around the United States—the family in Fiene Heights, for instance, that fled the cold weather and headed south to help Floridians decorate the Palm trees for Christmas.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Orlando, Fla. was the first destination for Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Swenson and their three daughters, Donna, Diana and Marlene, when they began their two-week holiday trip to the south. While in Orlando the five were house guests of Mrs. Swenson's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Masada. It was here that the delicious fish-fry took place and let's not forget to tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway and their two sons were also on hand for the gala event.

lando the visitors and their host family decided on a deep sea fishing trip off the coast. We hear the fishing venture was a successful one. The two families came home with 40 different kinds of fish ranging in size from small to large, and in species from a black, or red, grouper and black bass to an octopus and several flounders. You might think that sounds like fun, but there was more to come in the way of vacation besides the fish fry. Marineland, Cypress Gardens, Potter's Wax Museum, and yes, even the dog races received a visit from the visiting Lincoln family. After the excitement surrounding their stay in Orlando, the Lincoln family motored up to Tallahassee, Fla. where they visited with Mrs. Swenson's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Masada. It was here that the delicious fish-fry took place and let's not forget to tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway and their two sons were also on hand for the gala event.

Now it was time to return home—but there was still one more stop to be made in Bowling Green, Ky. It was there that Mr. and Mrs. Swenson visited with former Lincoln neighbors, Col. and Mrs. Blackburn Stephens and daughter, Sara.

Returning now to the events of last Sunday, we might mention the family dinner which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Witt. Present for the dinner were the couple's two sons, Fred Jr. and George, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tad Dunham.

There is some special "little" news coming from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scheidt this morning. It seems there is a very proud new aunt in their family and it happens to be Mrs. Scheidt. It can be very exciting to be an aunt for the first time but it must be even more exciting to be parents for the first time and that's the way it is for Mrs. Scheidt's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schweitzer. The very proud couple welcomed their new son, Troy Allen, as he made his grand entrance into the world on New Year's Day.

EASTMONT

Traveling from the Lincoln area recently were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wakefield and their family. Their destination for the holidays was Salt Lake City, Utah, where the Wakefield family visited friends and relatives.

FUN with the family in Arizona

For Mr. and Mrs. Arnott Folsom the holiday season was a particularly happy one this year. Not only were they in one of their favorite haunts, the Howard Miller Wild Horse Ranch in Tucson, Ariz., they also had three of their favorite people with them—their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Folsom, and the two grandchildren, Tom and Susan, of Columbus.

Attendants Announced

University of Nebraska co-ed, Miss Jane Ellen Johnson, this morning is naming the members of her bridal party for her wedding, which will be an event of Friday, Jan. 28.

For her marriage to James L. McKee, Miss Johnson has chosen Mrs. Gerald L. McKee as her matron of honor. Her bridesmaids will be her sister, Miss Sara Johnson, and Miss Linda Cleveland. Miss Melissa Marcussen will be the flower girl, and carrying the rings will be Mike Lewis.

Serving Mr. McKee as best man for the 8 o'clock evening service, to be solemnized at Eastridge Presbyterian Church, will be Dave Shepherd, and seating the guests will be Robert Covolik and Mr. McKee's brother, Terry McKee.

For those who have not traveled around and about in and out of Tucson, we'll tell you that those are not trees in the picture's background. They are some of Tucson's giant pre-historic saguaro cacti which dot the d u d o ranch country in the southwest. In the picture, standing left to right, Mrs. Elizabeth Folsom, Mrs. Arnott Folsom and Mr. Folsom. Seated are the two members of the younger generation of Folsoms.

TALK around the town

The town has settled down for a breather. Christmas, New Year's Eve, New Year's day—and the Bowl games are now in past tense. At the moment 1966 is still too young to have its palm read, but we are certain that the usual pattern will be followed—newswise — and that includes guests, parties, brides, homecomers, more brides and on and on until the football season rolls around again.

And speaking of football and the Orange Bowl game—and Nebraska's Orange Bowl float—the float fund is approximately thirteen dollars richer thanks to an enterprising young man.

Not too many evenings ago Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pace entertained a small group of guests at their home. The door was answered by young Johnny Pace, aged nine, who was done up in full football regalia. Johnny took the guests' wraps and ushered them into the living room with all of the gracious manners of a charming host. But that was by no means Johnny's last appearance at the party. Later he passed a plate which displayed a card—'Help the Orange Bowl Float fund', and believe it or not—everyone did.

With the close of the holiday season we have numerous homecomers to mention. Among these are Dr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan who returned home last Wednesday from Seattle, Wash., where they spent Christmas with their daughter, Miss Cynthia Morgan, and where they were joined by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Morgan of Portland, Ore., for the Christmas weekend.

Back home again, also, are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lilly who returned home the past weekend from Riverside, Conn., where they were the guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Lilly and their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lilly were accompanied to Connecticut by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gibbs, and the foursome reached Lincoln in time to watch the Orange Bowl game on New Year's night.

The new year began in fine fashion for Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Roberts. On New Year's Day they received a telephone call from Yokosuke, Japan. On the Japan end of the telephone was their son, S-A Harvey D. Roberts. Seaman Roberts, who is with the Naval Ship Repair Facilities in Yokosuke awaiting repairs on his ship.

After all repairs have been completed, Seaman Roberts will be on his way back to Viet Nam where he is stationed at the DaNang Air Base. And if you think that it seems a bit strange that a sailor is stationed at an Air Base, we'll offer an explanation. Seaman Roberts' ship has no engine, but is used as a base for the men.

But on with the homecomers—Spending a portion of the holiday season on skis were Mr. and Mrs. William L. Beachly, their daughters, Ann and Sue, and their son, Bill. The Beachlys foursome tried the slopes at Breckenridge, Colo., where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hyland and their children, Patty Sue, John and Daniel.

There were some surprise New Year's Eve guests in Lincoln, so we hear. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lock and their children, Alex and Carol, stopped off enroute from Palm Desert, Calif., where they had been vacationing, to their home in Claresholm, Alberta, Canada, to surprise Mr. Lock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lock.

During their brief stay in town they were the house guests of Mr. Lock's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lock.

And we hear that Miss Marjorie Mengshol left on Sunday to return to New York City after spending the holiday season as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Mengshol.

Wedding Plans Revealed

Revealing plans this morning for a mid-winter wedding is Miss Gaylia Ann Casady, who will become the bride of Harold M. Johnson, Jr., on Sunday, Jan. 30.

Her maid of honor will be Miss Beth Preece, and her bridesmaids will be her fiancée's sister, Miss Diana Johnson of Johnstown, and Miss Deanna Wegele.

Kent Hodson of Gothenburg, will serve Mr. Johnson as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Blaine Johnson of Johnstown brother of the bridegroom-elect; Jere Kern, Robert Miles and Bob Ross, all of Ainsworth. ## ABBY

poem a good 'hands-off' sign

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the hostess who resented her guests' well-meaning insistence on pitching in to help her clean up the kitchen after dinner reminded me that I once had that problem. But no more, I found a little poem by Susan Sawyer, which I now have pasted on my kitchen wall. When anyone offers to "help" me, I point to that poem. It says: "Please stay away from my kitchen. From my dishwashing, cooking and such. You were kind to have offered to pitch in. But thanks, no, thank you so much!"

Please don't think me ungracious. When I ask that you leave me alone; For my kitchen's not any too spacious. And my routine is strictly my own.

Tell you what: You stay out of my kitchen. With its sodden, hot, lack-lustre lures— When you're here, stay out of my kitchen. And I promise to stay out of yours!"

Sincerely,
MARTHA

DEAR ABBY: I detest cards. Is there something wrong with me? Don't get the idea that I don't have the brains to play cards because I played an excellent game of contract bridge at one time. (My parents were tournament bridge players.) A few years ago I made up my mind that cards were a stupid waste of time and energy and I gave up the game. My husband says I am being foolish, that being able to play a good game of bridge is a social asset, and I should take it up again. I was recently talked into being a "fourth" and I couldn't wait until the game was over. Am I stubborn, selfish and inconsiderate? My husband says I am.

DETESTS CARDS
DEAR DETESTS: Anyone who "detests" cards as much as you apparently do, wouldn't add much sociability to a card party. So I say, stick to your original decision and pass.

DEAR ABBY: I am past middle age, unmarried and have many free evenings, so I baby-sit for mothers in my neighborhood. I don't need the money as I have a good daytime job.

My troubles started when some of the women began comparing notes and learned that I don't charge them all the same price. For instance, there's a young mother who works part-time in the evenings. Her husband has been sick and unable to work, and I know they have to watch their pennies, so I charge her half of what I charge women in better circumstances. I have made many exceptions, and varied my prices quite a lot. I've been criticized for this. Do you think I am being fair or not?

CRITICIZED
DEAR CRITICIZED: Your system makes sense to me, and it should to the inquiring mothers. Tell them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SIS-SIE": It's wise to pick your friends—but not to pieces.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. M. M.: My remark, "If it's legal, it's moral," pertained only to the question of cousins marrying. I did not mean to state that any act which is legal is also moral. Laws change from time to time, and differ in various cultures, societies and communities. Not so with morality.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WANDA IN NEWPORT: You had better tell your friend exactly what to bring for the holiday. To some girls a "one-piece bathing suit" means a cap.

BRIDE at church ceremony

The marriage of Miss Idania Dominguez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aurecio Dominguez, to Ramon Sanchez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Ramon Sanchez, took place Saturday, Dec. 18, at St. Mary's Church. The service was solemnized by the Rev. Edward Tuckek, and Miss Catherine Gillespie, organist, played the wedding music.

The maid of honor was Miss Carmen Sanchez, and the bridesmaids were Miss Leonor Bretos and Miss Alina Navarro.

Raul Acosta served Mr. Sanchez as best man, and seating the guests were Jose Prendes and Oscar Vidal.

The bride appeared in a colonial gown of white silk bombazine and Chantilly lace. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was designed with a squared neckline, and the very full skirt was draped to reveal a dust ruffle of the lace and was completed by a court train of lace-bordered silk. Her tiered veil of illusion was held by a cluster of jeweled silk petals, and she carried white roses and carnations.

The couple will reside at 2501 N. Mr. Sanchez is a student at the University of Nebraska.

REAL ESTATE TIPS

Q. I have heard that I can now buy a home with only $200 down. Is this correct? (I hope so.)

A. Yes — if you have had at least 90 days of post military service. The $200 down will qualify you for a purchase of $15,000. You will also have to pay your own loan closing costs. In some cases the seller MAY foot this expense.

FLORIDA offered more than oranges

By LUCY (MRS. MIKE) KENNEDY

The game is over. I'm exhausted and I'm sure I cheered for our team loud enough for everyone back home. It was too bad it ended as it did. I sat with mixed emotions throughout the terrific battle and I'm sure the other senior wives felt the same. This was the last game for our husbands to play for Nebraska. It has been four grand years for us and a pleasure to be associated with such fine people as the Cornhusker staff and their wives.

Sunday, the Orange Bowl Committee had our last full day here jam-packed with activity. The teams ventured out to sea for a day of fishing sponsored by the Rod and Reel Club of Miami. Packed in suitcases will be three trophies that the Cornhuskers won in a fishing contest with Alabama. First place winner was Lynn Senkbeil; second place, my one-and-only Mike Kennedy; and tied for third, Roger Kudrna and Len Janik.

Next was the fabulous party for the teams and coaching staffs at which both Alabama and Nebraska players could have fun and relax.

All was enthusiasm in Miami Beach on New Year's Eve, but it was obvious that game time was approaching. It certainly didn't sound like New Year's Eve in our hotel—all was quiet up and down the corridors of the Ivanhoe. The team members were getting their rest for an important job on New Year's Night.

The Orange Bowl parade was magnificent. Both the floats and the girls on them were beautiful, and the colors were simply fantastic. There were loads of celebrities on hand, including, of course, the terrific MC's, Lorne Greene and Janet Blair.

Others were Bobby Vinton, Della Reese, Bobby Rydell, Bobby Gresco, the "Supremes," Miss Universe and our own Miss Nebraska, the lovely Karen Hansmiller.

After the parade there was a party for the coaching staffs and press—while the teams were snuggled in bed, the staff members and their wives welcomed in the new year for the rest of us.

Friday had been a busy day for us beginning with a morning cruise. Feminine members of the Cornhusker families were divided among ten yachts with members of the Orange Bowl Committee.

The "Go Big Red" gals on our particular yacht that toured the shoreline included Jan Pittenger, daughter of the Jim Pittengers; Elthe (Mrs. Carl) Selmer and her children, Brian and Kirby; Bev (Mrs. John) Melton, and her daughters, Cindy and Margy.

Our wonderful week of excitement in Miami has ended. We're packing our suitcases to head for home.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

Many contracts fail because of an unlucky lie of the defenders' cards, but some of them can be saved by careful play.

Let's say you have the South hand and West's opening lead is a club. You have every right to expect to make the contract, since the only combination of cards which could possibly jeopardize the hand would be for West to have all the missing trumps and East to have the ace of hearts.

This combination of events is unlikely to occur, and, in fact, the odds against its happening are about 17 to 1. But when you win the club with the queen and play a spade to the ace, East shows out and you are then in some serious sort of trouble.

It now looks as though you must go down if it develops that East has the ace of hearts, but, when you think the matter over, you realize that the hand can probably be made even if this is the case.

Accordingly, after cashing the king of spades and A-K of diamonds, you ruff a diamond. Next you play a club to the ace and lead the nine of diamonds. When East plays the queen, you heave a sigh of relief and discard a heart.

This is the first trick for the defense, and regardless of what East plays next, you are bound to make the contract. East is in the unpleasant predicament where he must lead either a heart, making the king a trick, or else a club, permitting you to discard another heart and ruff the club in dummy.

What the hand illustrates is that bad luck can often be overcome by good play, provided you don't lose your head when things go wrong. The endplay is one of the most valuable weapons in salvaging doubtful contracts, and the more you make use of it, the closer you come to earning the appellation of expert.

Cause Of Johnstown Flood

Freeport, Grand Bahamas — Trying to find any one thing that caused Nebraska's downfall in the Orange Bowl game is, like someone before us once said, "Like blaming the Johnstown Flood on a leaky toilet in Albany."

But as long as people believe that hindsight vision is always 20-20, there will be talk of the things that happened that might have changed the outcome of the game.

Of course, the biggest thing that changed the outcome of the game in Alabama's favor was two fellows named Steve Sloan and Ray Perkins.

But for those who like to lie awake nights, tossing and turning and thinking of what might have been, there was plenty of happenings to keep these type people awake.

To the credit of Nebraska coaches and players, not a single one of these things has been mentioned since the final gun sounded, but fans may be talking of what might have been for the next several weeks, at least until the Husker gridders regroup for spring practice.

As you gather over those coffee cups this week, you might discuss what might have happened had these things not have happened Saturday night.

First Fumble Costly

To open the conversation, you can discuss what would have happened had Harry Wilson not fumbled on the fourth Husker play of the game.

Frank Solich had returned the opening kickoff to the Nebraska 41-yard line and from there, Fred Duda got three yards, Frank Solich got six, Ron Kirkland picked up 12 and then after gaining nine, Wilson fumbled and Alabama recovered.

On those four plays, the Nebraska offensive line of LaVerne Allers, Jim Osberg, Dennis Carlson, Jim Brown and Kelly Peterson were opening holes for the backs that were dwarfed in size only by the holes opened against Kansas earlier in the season.

Had Nebraska been able to keep going and get the first score, things might have been different. But as it was, Nebraska momentum was stopped and Alabama went 61 yards for an easy TD.

Trying Too Hard

Then with the score tied at 7-7, Nebraska was penalized severely for what might be described as trying too hard.

The Husker defense had apparently stopped Alabama at its own 10-yard line and forced a punt, but Nebraska was called for roughing the punter when a hard charging lineman was unable to stop while trying to block the punt and bumped the kicker.

Now instead of having the ball in Alabama territory, Nebraska was still on defense with the penalty giving Alabama a first down at the Crimson Tide 25.

Alabama went from there to score the go-ahead touchdown, making it 14-7 and Nebraska then had to play catch-up the rest of the night.

Only Coffee Cup Chatter

It is only coffee cup chatter as to what might have happened had Nebraska not bumped the punter and had the Huskers been able to take the punt and go into a 14-7 lead.

But it's interesting to consider the possibilities. For one thing, the Huskers, by scoring, would not have been victimized by two outside kicks that were executed successfully by Alabama.

Nebraska opens its Big Eight basketball season tonight as the Cornhuskers meet Iowa State at 7:30 in the Iowa State Armory at Ames.

The Huskers, fresh from a history making second place finish in the Big Eight Pre-Season Tournament, must face the same problem they found in tournament champion Kansas—height.

The height at Iowa State is held mostly by the forwards — both sophomores. The first, Don (Kangaroo)

Smith stands 6-8 and led the Big Eight tourney in both scoring and rebounding. His counterpart is 6-9 Raul Daurie from Piura, Peru.

As the nickname "Kangaroo" implies, Smith is a tremendous jumper and led the Cyclone freshman in scoring last year with a 24.3 average.

Daurie is one of five basketball-playing brothers, four of whom played on the 1934 Peru Olympic team.

The center position for the Cyclones will be handled by 6-5 Dave Fleming. Fleming was the third leading Iowa State scorer last year.

The Cyclones' real power, however, lies in their guards. Al Koch, a 6-3 senior and co-captain of the Iowa State started the season slowly, but lost only to Kansas in last week's tournament, bringing its record to 5-5.

Nebraska will have another familiar problem besides facing a big team. The Huskers will be missing 6-6 center Willie Campbell. Campbell hurt his ankle in the California game earlier in the year, was kept from playing until the Big Eight tourney but injured the ankle again in that tournament.

Husker coach Joe Cipriano will therefore start either 6-6 senior Coley Webb or 6-8 sophomore Frank Empey.

The rest of the Husker lineup, however, should be about the same with Nate Branch and Tom Baack at forwards and Stuart Lantz and Grant Simmons at guards.

Although Nebraska is smaller, Cyclone coach Anderson is still worrying. Anderson calls the Huskers an aggressive team with a good defense. According to Iowa State officials, Anderson is trying to prepare his team to combat Nebraska's press which has been so effective so far this year.

The Huskers, with an 8-2 record, meet Missouri at the Coliseum Saturday night.

Farrell Gets Nod As Coach

Chicago (AP)—Kerby Farrell, manager of the Cleveland Indians in 1957 and a first baseman for the Chicago White Sox in 1945, was named a Sox coach Monday by Manager Eddie Stanky.

Farrell, 52, had been with the New York Mets organization and had been slated to pilot the Mets' International League farm affiliate, the Jacksonville, Fla., Suns, this season.

Solly Hemus, simultaneously with the Farrell move, was named manager of the Jacksonville club. Hemus, 41, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was third base coach of the Mets in 1962 and 1963 and served the Indians in the same capacity the last two years.

Farrell hired Stanky as his third base coach when he took over the Cleveland reins in 1957. When Stanky succeeded Al Lopez as White Sox skipper last month, he asked permission to approach Farrell for his services. The Mets granted it but asked time to get a replacement.

"We hate to lose a valuable man like Farrell," George Weiss, Mets' president, said in New York. "But it has been our policy never to stand in the way of advancement of any of the people in our organization."

The White Sox coaching staff now is complete. Held over from Lopez's regime are Ray Berres, Tony Cuccinello and Don Gutteridge.

SABAN TO TERP POST

ROUGHING PENALTY . . . Came on this play.

AFL Coach Of Year Takes Cut In Salary

. . . AS MARYLAND COACH

College Park, Md. (AP)—Lou Saban quit the champion pro Buffalo Bills and took a lower paying job as head coach at the University of Maryland Monday because "in professional football, winning is everything."

Saban, admitting he took a salary cut in giving up his post with the American Football League club, said he had been anxious for some time to return to a college atmosphere.

"Pro football is strictly business, there is nothing out of it," said Saban, whose Bills won AFL titles in 1954 and 1955.

"This is not true on the college level. I felt here I could contribute much more from the point of coaching alone but from the point of living. There ought to be more than just drawing squares and circles. It depends on what you want to do with your family."

The university president, William H. Elkins, said Saban had signed a four-year contract. Saban declined to disclose the terms. He reportedly was receiving $30,000 a year at Buffalo. The head coaching job at Maryland has been in the vicinity of $12,000 annually in the past.

Elkins said he was "delighted, although a little surprised that Saban was available" for the Maryland position "because he was a winning coach in the AFL."

The 44-year-old Saban said he felt "Maryland has a good nucleus for a football squad" and should be at "very near the top in a short time."

Saban said he had been approached by two or three other colleges in recent years but added that Maryland was the only one he considered.

At Maryland, Saban succeeds Tom Nugent, who was released after posting a 4-6 record with what he had described as his best squad in his seven seasons.

Maryland's surprising grab of a successful pro coach underscored its desire to regain national football stature.

Terps have not basked in grid glory since the late Jim Tatum resigned in 1956.

During Tatum's nine seasons, Maryland won 73 games, lost 15, tied four and never had a losing season. It was undefeated twice, played in five post season bowls and was national champion in 1953.

Tommy Mont, an alumnus, succeeded Tatum for two years and was fired after winning seven out of 20 games. Nugent was hired after a successful record at Florida State, but was able to post winning slates in only three of seven seasons.

The university announced last month his contract, which expires Jan. 15, would not be renewed. Nugent has not yet obtained a coaching job. One of his assistants, Lee Corso, has moved over to Navy.

Saban moved into professional football tutoring with the formation of the AFL in 1960 as coach of the Boston Patriots. His first season record was 5-9 and he was fired in 1961 after losing three of the first five games.

Buffalo took him on as director of player personnel and named him head coach the next season. He posted records of 7-6-1 in both 1962 and 1963. The next season, Buffalo won the Eastern Division title with a 12-2 mark.

Terres Jan. 15, would not be renewed. Nugent has not yet obtained a coaching job. One of his assistants, Lee Corso, has moved over to Navy.

B, C Leaders Undeclared

Hastings St. Cecilia and Loup City, which carry undefeated records into 1966, head the Class B and C divisions of the Nebraska Prep Ratings.

St. Cecilia is running in front of defending champion Geneva, a team it defeated 58-54, in the Class B race.

Loup City is followed by Fullerton and defending champion University High in the Class C top ten.

St. Cecilia, paced by 6-5 Mike Aspen, passed five tests in December, the big one being the win at Geneva.

Geneva recovered after losing to St. Cecilia, winning three straight. The last decision was a 65-51 win over previously unbeaten Hebron, the 1965 Class C runnerup which ranks No. 5 in the opening Class B chart this year.

Unbeaten Schuyler and re-surging Minden are No. 3 and 4, respectively, in class B.

Heading the second division is undefeated Millard, followed by York, Wayne, Madison and West Point Central Catholic.

Loup City, which ranked No. 10 in Class B with a 17-4 record last year, drops to Class C and moves right to the top.

Mel Nun's Red Raiders have posted six straight wins, four over Class B teams, to claim the No. 1 ranking.

Fullerton, winner of six straight before bowing to Class B Madison, edges University High for the runner-up spot. The Warriors are in the same district as front-running Loup City.

University High served notice in the Holy Name Invitational that it is ready to make a stout defense of its title. The Tutors lost their first two to Class B Geneva and Omaha Cathedral, but polished off Tecumseh, Bishop Rummel and Osceola in their next three starts.

Pawnee City, hiking its winning string despite injury problems, is No. 4 with a perfect 8-0 record and Seward Concordia claims the No. 5 spot.

Grant, swinging knockout punches against Western Class A and B opposition, heads the second division with its 6-1 record.

Rounding out the second five are Ceresco, Bayard, Bertrand and Osceola.

Ceresco and Osceola, each undefeated, come from the same district as Seward Concordia.

Wizards Here Tonight

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Abe Saperstein's famed Harlem Globetrotters return to Pershing Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. tonight to put on another exhibition of basketball wizardry against the Washington Generals.

Tonight's performance marks the eighth appearance at the Auditorium for Saperstein's court magicians who have traveled throughout the world displaying their talents to amazed audiences.

Heading the "Galaxy of Stars" will be Meadowlark Lemon, famed "court jester," who maintains that "You can't teach a guy to be a comic."

"This comedy and fancy ball-handling is not something you learn overnight," Meadowlark explains. "First you have to be somewhat of a ham, a pretty good basketball player, and a good ball-handler."

"Then you have to continually study audience reaction, improving on stunts they seem to like and discarding others that lay a bomb."

Meadowlark has been able to do all this with the Globetrotters. He's had to in order to maintain his No. 1 showmanship status with the fast crowd he's been hanging around with.

In the 11 years Meadowlark has been with Saperstein and the Trotters, some top talent has come and gone, including Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, former University of Kansas great, now hitting it extra big with the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association.

You name it, and Meadowlark can do it on the basketball court. And he'll add surprises only his nimble mind could think up.

"I have so many routines that I haven't been able to pinpoint which ones get the most laughs," Meadowlark contends. Although nearly all his antics bring down the house.

But not all of them get laughs. The Trotters have played before dead crowds, believe it or not, and Meadowlark likes it better that way. "It's difficult to keep a live crowd in the palm of your hand without working your hardest throughout," the 6-2 bundle of basketball-playing dynamite explains. "But we know in most cases that a dead audience will come around eventually."

Meadowlark was a high school star at Williston High School in Wilmington, N.C., and asked for a Globetrotter tryout upon his graduation. Before this could be granted, however, he was drafted into the Army, eventually finding himself stationed in Western Germany.

The Globetrotters were coming through there on one of their annual summer trips to Europe, and Lemon asked Saperstein for permission to play with them.

The request was granted, and Lemon proceeded to give such a tremendous demonstration of basketball and comedy ability that the Trotter owner-coach told him there would be a regular job on the team awaiting him when his service days were completed. The rest is history!

It isn't all that easy for many prospective members of the Globetrotters, however. "We have had some guys come out we thought would make good members of our outfit," Meadowlark comments. "But they didn't work out. Sometimes it's the lack of good hands."

He declared the Trotters can teach a fellow just so much ball handling, and that the comedy part is an extra some players have. "That is something that has to come from within."

Actually the fact that Meadowlark is chief comic means he has to work harder. "You have to play basketball, and put on a show too," he concluded.

An appropriate accompaniment for the Trotters is Lefty "Satchel" Paige, ageless major league pitching standout, who will perform at the half.

The combination of the Globetrotters and Paige make an attraction guaranteed to tickle the funnybone of any fan.

Arnold Attendance Drops Below 700

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Enrollment has dropped to 699 in Kindergarten through the sixth grade at the Lincoln Air Force Base school, General Arnold, Principal Corwin Enevoldsen reported Monday.

General Arnold opened the school year in September with 1,038.

"We expect to start the second semester with well over 600," Enevoldsen said, "but he would not guess on how low the enrollment might be at the end of the year in June."

Over Authorization

Air Force authorization for the base calls for a decrease in men from the approximately 1,800 here as of Monday, according to Wing Commander Col. C. J. Moore, down to 132 officers and 846 airmen by March 31.

However, Moore emphasized, in the process of closing a base and re-assigning men, personnel on hand usually exceed authorization for a time.

Authorization for men at the base by July was announced earlier to be about 30 officers and 300 airmen, remaining constant until March 31, 1967. But Moore pointed out that he did not expect the actual number of personnel in the caretaker force to fall below 500 before late fall.

Paying Lawyers Should Be Same Under New Law

The State Justice Department Monday said court-appointed attorneys for indigent defendants should be paid under the new post-conviction law in the same manner as was the practice previously.

Hall County Atty. Richard L. Debacker of Grand Island noted in a letter that the new law provided that payment of court-appointed attorneys be made in accordance with a specific statute, but that statute was subsequently repealed by the Legislature.

The Justice Department said the Supreme Court has held that when provisions of one statute are incorporated by reference in another, the incorporated provisions continue in force even if the earlier statute is repealed.

The post-conviction law passed by the last Legislature permits inmates who contend violations of constitutional rights to seek relief in the court in which they were convicted.

Schools Personnel Director Carroll Sawin reported Monday that, to date, he has no plans to change his recommendation for removing 11 teachers from General Arnold to fill elementary vacancies throughout the system at the beginning of second semester, Jan. 31.

Resignations Likely

Although Sawin only has 12 vacancies to fill Monday, he said he "normally" receives "about a half-dozen resignations between now and next semester."

"I am still confident we will be hiring outside teachers," Sawin declared, pointing out that the biggest problem will be placing available teachers in the openings.

If some of the Arnold teachers are not qualified for the new positions, they will remain at the base school with smaller classes, Sawin explained.

Property Valuations Climb In Cities

... UP AN AVERAGE OF 29%

Tangible property valuations for tax purposes in 24 larger Nebraska cities have increased an average of 29% in the past six years, the Nebraska Tax Research Council reported Monday.

Fairbury was the only city in the group to show a valuation decrease, amounting to 4.2%.

The largest increase was 123.3%, recorded in Bellevue.

The total property tax mill levy also increased in 23 of the 24 cities in the comparison of fiscal 1961 with fiscal 1966. Only in McCook did the total levy decline, by 8.9%.

The other cities showed total levy increases ranging from 4.5% in Plattsmouth to 34.9% in Beatrice, with an over-all average increase of 16.6%.

In terms of total property tax dollars collected, these increases were noted between 1961 and 1966: Omaha, up 65.4%; Lincoln 63.4, Grand Island 56.7, Hastings 32.1, Fremont 51.8, North Platte 46.0, Kearney 36.9, Scottsbluff 49.0, Norfolk 65.7, Columbus 73.3, Beatrice 48.6, Bellevue 129.3, McCook 34.8, Sidney 21.7, Alliance 40.5, Nebraska City 36.8, South Sioux City 49.4, Plattsmouth 34.4, York 43.4, Falls City 13.0, Fairbury 16.1, Lexington 29.2, Holdrege 31.8, Chadron 39.9.

K. W. Tenopir Is Candidate For Sheriff

Kenneth W. Tenopir, acting constable for Lancaster County, filed Monday for Lancaster County Sheriff on the Democratic ticket.

A former deputy sheriff and Lincoln policeman, Tenopir, 32, has had nine years experience in law enforcement.

He is the fourth person to file for the office. Sheriff Merle Karnopp and former Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Nelson have filed on the Republican ticket, while Robert E. Colin Sr. has filed as a Democrat.

Judge Boslaugh Honored At Rites

The State Supreme Court Monday honored the late Judge Paul E. Boslaugh, who served on the high court from 1949 to 1961.

Leon Amelsson of Franklin, Robert H. Beaty of North Platte, Walter D. James of Lincoln, L. R. Stiner of Hastings and Judge John W. Yeager of Lincoln presented memorial resolutions.

Dworak To Talk Against Federal Interstate Tax Act

Gov. Frank Morrison Monday directed State Tax Commissioner George Dworak to testify at congressional hearings against the proposed Federal Interstate Taxation Act.

The House of Representatives bill proposes to place income, sales, gross receipts and capital stock taxes under the jurisdiction or control of the federal government.

"Such encroachment would materially affect the sovereignty of the states," Morrison said. "We will join other Midwestern states in opposing this bill."

Morrison directed the tax commissioner's staff to prepare a detailed analysis and report for presentation on the Congressional hearings.

Opinion On School Service Unit Bill To Be Sought

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln school leaders were told Monday by Gov. Frank Morrison that he would try to seek an attorney general's opinion defining supplementary services outlined in the educational service unit bill, LB301.

The governor was unable to answer questions raised by the School Board but said he would help get some answers for the district, Capt. Steven N. Watkins reported.

Watkins and Board of Education member Robert Magee privately discussed Lincoln school participation in the five-county educational service unit with the governor Monday.

Lincoln is assigned to a unit made up of Lancaster, Seward, Saline, Fillmore and York Counties, but has the option to remove itself from the unit, according to the legislation. Units have the power to tax up to one mill in order to provide supplementary services.

Letter Ordered

School Board members at their Nov. 23 meeting had directed Watkins to write a letter to State School Supt. Floyd Miller requesting an opinion from the attorney general on what is meant by supplementary services proposed in LB301.

In its effort to gather as much information as possible about the bill before determining Lincoln participation, the board wanted an opinion telling if the cost of present supplementary services provided by the district could be transferred to the service unit and if expansion of the present program could be placed under the service unit.

Watkins reported at the Dec. 10 board meeting that no answer had been received from the State Department of Education, but a "continued attempt" would be made to obtain the information before the next meeting, scheduled for Jan. 11.

Derision Due

The board must make the decision at its next meeting, Watkins said, noting that the legislation provides a request for exemption must be made within 60 days after the act became effective Nov. 18.

Watkins had indicated in previous meetings concerning the educational service units that he could not point out any specific advantages to Lincoln through participation since the "vices already were being provided."

Omaha, with an option similar to Lincoln's, has decided to remain in a unit composed of Washington, Douglas, Sarpy and Cass Counties.

Aerospace, Coppers Up In Scrambled Market

New York (AP) — The stock market made its 1966 debut Monday with a scrambled pattern, highlighted by strength in coppers and aerospace issuer and weakness in steels.

Volume was dampened by the New York City transit strike but not nearly as much as some had expected. Turnover of 5.95 million shares compared with 7.25 million on Friday, a year-end session when volume is usually heavy.

Steel and Inland Steel were targets of selling because their price increase for structural steel drew fire not only from government economists but also from Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara who directed government orders for structural steel away from any firm which raised prices.

Many Grains Hit Season's Peaks

Chicago (AP) — In the broadest general advances of several weeks, numerous contracts in the grain futures market Monday hit their highest levels of the season.

Gains for nearly all the old crop soybean contracts exceeded 6 cents a bushel. Rye moved up more than 3 cents; corn and wheat well over a cent.

Dealers said a good deal of the demand appeared to have come from speculators who had been absent from the pits during the holidays.

At the close, wheat was 11-1/4 cents a bushel higher, March 1965-66; corn 1-1/4 higher, March 1965-66; soybeans 2-1/2 higher, March 1965-66.

N.Y. Stock Exchange

New York (UPI) — The stock market made its 1966 debut Monday with a scrambled pattern, highlighted by strength in coppers and aerospace issuer and weakness in steels.

Volume was dampened by the New York City transit strike but not nearly as much as some had expected. Turnover of 5.95 million shares compared with 7.25 million on Friday, a year-end session when volume is usually heavy.

Steel and Inland Steel were targets of selling because their price increase for structural steel drew fire not only from government economists but also from Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara who directed government orders for structural steel away from any firm which raised prices.

Many Grains Hit Season's Peaks

Chicago (AP) — In the broadest general advances of several weeks, numerous contracts in the grain futures market Monday hit their highest levels of the season.

Gains for nearly all the old crop soybean contracts exceeded 6 cents a bushel. Rye moved up more than 3 cents; corn and wheat well over a cent.

Dealers said a good deal of the demand appeared to have come from speculators who had been absent from the pits during the holidays.

At the close, wheat was 11-1/4 cents a bushel higher, March 1965-66; corn 1-1/4 higher, March 1965-66; soybeans 2-1/2 higher, March 1965-66.

Willis To Probe Louisiana Klan

Washington (U) — Chairman Edwin E. Willis of the House Un-American Activities Committee met Monday with his investigators of Ku Klux Klan affairs to chart the course of a new series of hearings starting Tuesday.

The reported target: Louisiana, Willis' home state.

The Louisiana Democrat said in an interview he is much heartened to find the business community in his

ADA's Rough Against Klan 'Exposure'

Washington (UPI) — A spokesman for the liberal American for Democratic Action (ADA) strongly protested Monday against a suggestion by a congressional investigator that rank-and-file members of the Ku Klux Klan be identified and exposed.

ADA Vice Chairman Joseph L. Raugh Jr. took issue with the proposal by Rep. Charles L. Welter, D-Ga., that the House Un-American Activities committee list publicly the names of individual members.

In advance of the reopening of committee hearings Tuesday, Welter, a member of the group and an instigator of the investigation, said recently he felt disclosure of rank-and-file members would be helpful.

Raugh, a strong civil rights advocate and prominent Washington attorney, deplored Welter's approach. He cited a 1957 Supreme Court ruling that "exposure for exposure's sake and exposure as punishment" by a congressional committee were illegal.

The ADA official said in a statement: "The publication of names that Rep. Welter has urged would be exposure for the sake of punishing the individual members. Enslavement in this free society is a matter for the courts, not the Congress. This is the law of the land, as enunciated repeatedly by the Supreme Court, and the House... committee knows it."

Italian Reds Demand Premier's Resignation

Rome (UPI) — The Communists Monday night demanded that the government of Premier Aldo Moro step down following the resignation of its foreign minister and indicated they would seek a no confidence vote in parliament.

The Communist chamber and senatorial leaders, Pietro Ingrao and Edoardo Bernabè, gave their views to President Giuseppe Saragat after the government reluctantly agreed to a floor debate on its policies when parliament reconvenes Jan. 12.

If there is a confidence

Foot And Mouth Disease Spreads In Soviet Union

Federally Backed Color ETV Set For Four States

Washington (UPI) — A federally financed educational television station broadcasting in color for a four-state area will be established in Boston, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare told Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Monday.

The station, WGBX, will become the city's second educational facility with the help of a $725,190 federal grant. It will offer programs in high school vocational training, adult education and Harvard University courses for credit.

Documents Show Pius Tied British, Anti-Hitler Group

Vatican City (U) — Documents showing Pope Pius XII acted as a link two decades ago between the British and an anti-Hitler group of German generals are not lost but are in archives here, Vatican sources said Monday.

Prof. Harold C. Deutsch, a University of Minnesota historian, told of the wartime papal episode last week at a San Francisco meeting of the American Historical Association. The professor said most of the pertinent documents had been destroyed.

Jittery Bandit Stops Teller's Generosity; Getaway Misfires

Houston (UPI) — A jittery bandit — so nervous that he whispered "that's enough" to the bank clerk frantically filling a sack with money — was arrested Monday just one hour after he robbed the Westmont National Bank of $19,490.

Police arrested Cecil Morgan Pierce, 49, about an hour after the robbery.

Police in Albuquerque, N.M., said Pierce was charged there with the Dec. 21 holdup of a downtown Albuquerque finance company.

Agent's Car
Police said the Albuquerque bandit tried to jump into several automobiles after the holdup and finally commandeered one driven by Daniel Dunagan, an agent of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Dunagan was released unharmed a short time later.

The Houston robbery followed much the same pattern.

Nothing went right for the bandit in the Monday holdup. He sprinted from the small bank while a frightened teller still had money to stuff into a brown paper bag, failed to intimidate a bank customer into driving him

Youth Arrested For Job Corps Extortion Charge

Lake City, Fla. (UPI) — Charles Tomlin Jr., 19, was arrested by the FBI early Monday on charges of aiding and abetting an extortion scheme at a Job Corps camp in Fort Custer, Mich.

A federal indictment at Grand Rapids, Mich., charged Tomlin with aiding and abetting in the threatening of several persons in an attempt to extort money.

D. K. Brown, special agent in charge of the Jacksonville FBI office, said victims of the protection racket paid small amounts of money so they would not be beaten and their personal property would not be stolen.

Tomlin was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner in Jacksonville and released on $1,500 bond.

Record New Year's Weekend Boosts Holiday Toll To 1,300

Chicago (U) — A record New Year's holiday weekend toll of 564 carried to nearly 1,300 Monday the number of Americans killed in heavy motor traffic over two long, successive weekends.

The Christmas weekend toll of 720 was the greatest for any three-day holiday celebration on record.

"The depth of this tragedy demands the active concern of every American, whatever his stature," Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said. "The horror we all feel at the extent of this needless death must not be considered a helpless emotion."

The council estimated that in addition to the deaths more than 60,000 persons were disabled, many permanently, in

Katzenbach 'Safe' Tax Delinquent

Chicago (UPI) — U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach is listed as owing $1,543 in a current list of Cook County tax delinquents, but a county official said he is "in the clear."

Katzenbach's name turned up as delinquent for a building on Chicago's South Side in which he lived when teaching law at the University of Chicago.

Deputy County Treasurer, Walter Conrad said the taxes covered the year 1964 and were payable this year. Katzenbach was quoted as saying all realty taxes had been paid before he sold the home to St. Leonard's House, a prison rehabilitation center in Chicago in 1962.

An official in the Cook County assessor's office confirmed the sale.

"If that's the case," Conrad said, "Katzenbach is in the clear. We don't know where titles to property changes hands. The new owner must come in and file for a tax exemption or else taxes are levied."

Smith Stops Taxing Coal To Zambia

Salisbury, Rhodesia (U) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime suspended Monday its surcharge and export tax on coal and coke sent to Zambia's copper mine area and the Congo.

The $14 per ton coal charge and $22.4 per ton tax on coke were imposed 16 days ago, after Britain announced an oil embargo against Rhodesia.

Smith offered on Jan. 1 to lift the surcharge and export tax in an effort to end what he called "the useless economic war." He also offered to resume refining Zambia's normal gasoline needs. The latter offer was rejected by President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia.

Board Supports Suspending Five Banded Students

Des Moines, Iowa (UPI) — The Des Moines School Board Monday night voted 5-2 in favor of supporting administration policy of suspending five students for wearing black armbands to class in protest of U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

The board reached its decision after two hours of open hearing at a room at Des Moines Technical High School jammed with onlookers supporting and challenging the administration policy. Some spectators wore black armbands.

Two of the students vowed they would not return to school because the suspensions had violated their "basic constitutional rights."

Bank Clearings Show Increase

Smathers Will Retire; Race For Seat To Ensnue

Miami (UPI) — U.S. Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., announced Monday he will retire on doctors orders after his present term expires in 1968.

Smathers, 51, said he is suffering with an ailment he described as "serious, complex, but not incurable."

He did not elaborate but did say he probably would enter a hospital in Miami or Washington within a week.

Smathers' announcement leaves the field open for a number of state political figures to make their bid for the Senate. Among those most mentioned in speculation are former Gov. Leroy Collins, Democratic Congressman Charles M. Bennett of Jacksonville, Secretary of State Tom Adams and former Gov. Farris Bryant.

Smathers said he would "continue to represent the people of Florida in the Senate through the remainder of my term, devoting all my energies to the betterment of the state's and the nation's interests, as these interests develop in Washington.

"I cannot follow my doctor's orders and still make all the speeches, the appearances and contracts around the state that a senator is certainly expected to make if he is preparing himself to run for re-election," Smathers said.

He said he was announcing his decision now out of concern for "a number of my good friends" who are unable to make their own political decisions without knowing what Smathers planned to do.

Smathers called his 15 years' service as a Democratic senator a "wonderful and rewarding experience."

Smathers won his Senate seat in 1950 following defeat of incumbent Claude Pepper in one of the state's bitterest political campaigns.

Before going to the Senate, Smathers served four years as a congressman.

FLOYD B. MCKISSICK

McKissick Succeeds Farmer At CORE Top

New York (AP) — The Congress of Racial Equality Monday announced that Floyd B. McKissick, its national chairman, will succeed James Farmer as national director.

McKissick, 43, a North Carolina lawyer, will take over on March 1, the date Farmer steps down to become director of a national literacy project.

'Silenced Priests' To Be In Magazine

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — Ave Maria, Catholic weekly magazine, will list 13 "silenced priests" in a special Jan. 8 issue on the controversy over clerical freedom of political speech and action.

The magazine, published on the University of Notre Dame campus but not connected with the school, said the 13 were restricted in their action or their teaching "because of some involvement in the struggle for civil rights or in what is loosely and carelessly called 'the peace movement.'"

Editor Father John Reedy of the Congregation of the Holy Cross said editorially that "whether we like it or not, there is a growing group of Catholic laymen, religious and priests who are developing experience and skill in the techniques of public protest."

"Whether or not the present condition of the church represents a crisis is perhaps debatable," he said. "However, we can all agree that a 'problem situation' has emerged which demands to be handled openly and immediately."

The magazine listed these "silenced priests":

The Rev. William Du Bay, formerly administrative assistant in a mostly Negro parish, Compton, Calif., a Los Angeles industrial suburb.

William L. Hudson filed a $25,000 damage suit in Lancaster District Court Monday in connection with injuries he received while a customer at the American Community Stores Co. at 16th and South.

The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the defendant store when he was struck in the head by a gate while grocery shopping at the store.

The Rev. Joel Moeller, St. Bernadette's Parish, Los Angeles.

The Rev. J. Clement Burns, formerly on the faculty of La Salle College.

The Rev. John V. Coffield, former pastor of Ascension Church, Los Angeles.

The Rev. Philip Berrigan, formerly on the faculty of Epiphany College Seminary, Newburgh, N.Y.

The Rev. Phillip E. Berryman, formerly of St. Philip the Apostle Parish, Pasadena, Calif.

The Rev. Maurice Ouellet, formerly of St. Elizabeth's Mission, Selma, Ala.

The Rev. Gommer De Pauw, former teacher at Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg, Md.

The Rev. James E. Groppi and the Rev. William Whelan, Milwaukee.

The Rev. Bonaventure O'Brien, professor of theology at St. Bernardine of Siena College, Lodi, N.Y.

Chile Bans Siesta By Official Decree

Santiago, Chile (UPI) — Chile by official decree banned the siesta Monday.

The traditional two-hour lunch, followed by a short nap, was officially banished from the life of government workers at noon. The half-hour lunch break made its debut at the same time. Private business must follow the new system by July.

There was a chorus of protests at the unreadiness of midtown eateries for the changeover.

The straight shift requires all public employees — and there are 100,000 of them in Santiago — to begin work at 8:30 and 9 a.m. Private offices are to open between 8:15 and 8:45 a.m.

Retail outlets have been given six months to adjust their schedules to the new order. It was presumed most would alter their schedules to open late in the morning to catch after-work shoppers.

Bar owners in particular — and their customers — were irked by a portion of the decree that ordered bars to close between 4 and 7 p.m. The official reason for the new step was to maintain the pace of the staggered-hour exodus of workers via the city's overtaxed public transport system. Bars are also forbidden to open until 11 a.m.

Implicit in the ruling on the pubs was the Christian Democrat government's proclaimed concern for the unity of family.

Housewives were generally pleased at the prospect of not having to prepare or oversee mid-day lunches.

CASTRO BITTER ON TRADE

Havana (AP) — Diplomatic observers said Monday Prime Minister Fidel Castro is bitter about Communist China's cutback in trade with Cuba.

One source said Castro's speech Sunday announcing that Peking had broken a trade agreement was "a blast at the Red Chinese." Another described it as "bitter and somber."

The Cuban leader spoke on the seventh anniversary of his revolution and on the eve of a nine-day conference in Havana of revolutionists from three continents. The conference, called for solidarity, is expected to touch on the Moscow-Peking feud. Observers say most delegates appear likely to side with the Kremlin. (In Belgrade, the Yugoslav Communist Party newspaper Borba accused the organizers of the conference of "attempts to discriminate against policies of nonalignment and peaceful coexistence.")

Castro told a massive throng in Havana's revolutionary plaza that Communist China had refused to sell Cuba anymore rice and refused to buy 800,000 tons of Cuban sugar.

He said China was unwilling also to continue to extend foreign trade credits as in the past and complained that many countries — naming Argentina and Uruguay — trade with Communist China but not with Cuba.
